EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. This Office Action is made in response to applicant's amendment filed on 7/30/2007. Claims 4, 5, 9-12, and, 15-18 are currently pending in the application. An action follows below:
2. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Keith George on 9/19/07.

The application has been amended as follows:

Please amend claim 4 as follows:

4. A display device comprising a power supply unit for supplying power, a display unit for displaying an image, a data input circuit for inputting display data corresponding to an image to be displayed on the display unit, a data buffer for storing the input display data, rewrite input means for requesting a change in the display content of the display unit and a control circuit, wherein:

said power supply unit includes a power supply which varies a power supply ability with time or has average produced power lower than average power required to rewrite one screen, a power storage unit which as a capacity of stored electric power for holding power higher than the average power required to rewrite one screen and a stored power detecting circuit which detects an amount of electric power stored in said power storage unit;

said power supply is connected to said display unit via said power storage unit;

said display unit includes a matrix display area, in which a large number of pixels having an optical modulating function capable of changing brightness, a reflectance, a transmittance and colors by a voltage or a current are arranged in a matrix, and a driving circuit including a sequence circuit for driving the matrix display area;

said pixels have a pixel memory for holding display data and are driven according to a pixel rewrite period for rewriting a display content of said display unit and a pixel holding period for holding the display content; and said control circuit controls said driving circuit to rewrite a still screen by rewriting a pixel display content when said stored power detecting circuit outputs a stored power detection signal indicative of a detected amount of stored electric power not less than the average power required for at least rewriting of a screen of the display unit, and

~~said control~~ said control circuit controls the driving circuit so as to rewrite the pixel display content of the display unit repetitively by rewriting the screen continuously to thereby display a moving picture, when said stored power detecting circuit detects a stored power detection signal indicative of a detected amount of stored electric power not less than 6the average power required to rewrite the screen continuously.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The present invention is directed to a display device with a power system for storing ambient energy and operating the device in different modes based on the amount of stored energy. Independent claims 4 and 5 identify the uniquely distinct features the control circuit controlling the driving circuit to rewrite a still screen when the detected amount of stored power is not less than the average power required for rewriting a single screen of the display and the control circuit controlling the driving circuit to repetitively rewrite the display screen to produce a moving picture when the detected amount of stored power is not less than the average power required to rewrite the screen continuously. The closest prior art, Ochi (USPN: 7088355; previously referred to as Minolta in other Office Actions) and Richley et al. (USPN: 6348908) disclose display devices that store ambient energy and redraw display devices when sufficient power is stored, but fail to address providing still or moving images based on amounts of stored power, either singularly or in combination, fail to anticipate or render the above underlined limitations obvious. The Applicant's Arguments provided on pages 7-11 provide further explanation of the reasons for allowance.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
